

Recommended Profile

The Master's Degree in the Literature and Culture of Britain and Other English-Speaking Countries (literature, culture, communication and translation) is aimed at graduates interested in broadening their knowledge of key aspects of the English-speaking world, and also acquiring the necessary knowledge and competences to analyze this culture from a literary and communication point of view.

Recommended entry profile:

- Graduates in English Philology, English Studies or an equivalent degree.
- Graduates in the field of Humanities with a high level of English (Cambridge Proficiency or an equivalent level).
- Graduates, postgraduate students, doctors or qualified professionals from other fields of knowledge who can certify a high level of English (Cambridge Proficiency or an equivalent level) and are interested in broadening their knowledge about their knowledge of literature and culture in the English language.

It should be noted that before registration students will be asked to come to an interview with the members of the Coordination Commission of the Master's Degree in which their level of English will be examined or they will receive some recommendations about the supplementary credits that may be required in their case (10 or 20 credits from English Language subjects in the Degree in English Studies).
