

Do you dare to find solutions for Europe's future food system?

What is FOODMIO?

FOODMIO is a challenge-based programme. Participants will work in international and interdisciplinary teams to find their food solutions.

The challenge: To use plant side-streams or novel food sources (algae- or insect-based) to formulate MeatHybrids.

Who can apply?

Bachelor, master and doctoral students, young researchers and professionals enrolled at any of the participating academic institutions.

Where will I develop my food solution?

Participants will work at their own institutions. Team meetings, classes and other activities will be done through online platforms.
