2. Métodos Docentes / Teaching methodology

- (1) Lecture: In general, each class will include a combination of lectures and discussions focusing on theory and research on diversity issues. Students will be expected to read all assigned work prior to the day in which the topic will be covered and to come to class prepared to participate in all activities.
- (2) Reflection Paper: In this assignment, the students will be asked to form 3-4 member study groups to write a reflection paper on one of the session topics (see "Course contents" above). Each group will be responsible for submitting a proposal which needs to be approved by the instructor. The length of the final paper must be at least 20 double-spaced pages, excluding references, tables and graphics.

(3) Group Presentation: All groups are required to provide to the class a 20-minute oral presentation on their reflection paper. After the presentation is made to the class, a “dissertation style Q & A” session will be held. The instructor will lead with a series of critical thinking questions and will then open the floor to each student group in the audience.

(4) Class Discussion/Participation: The instructor will provide a topic—a theoretical issue or a current event of a specific firm—for the class discussion in group. In addition, the instructor may occasionally request short essays or reports on the session topics. All groups are expected to collect necessary information and submit these written assignments.

will be based on general knowledge of theories and the viability of the application of those theories for international marketing from diverse cultural/business background. The final examination will be closed book and notes. However, students from non-English speaking countries will be allowed to bring one dictionary.

Grading Concerns: If students disagree with a grade, they can submit their concerns to the Instructor in a written note within 72 hours of having received the grade. No email correspondence is accepted. Specifically indicate why they disagree with the grade and why their work deserves more credit. The instructor will respond within 72 hours.

Academic Integrity: Students of the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid must conduct themselves in accordance with the highest standards of academic honesty and integrity. Failure to maintain academic integrity will not be tolerated. Plagiarism and cheating are serious offences that carry with them the minimum penalty of a “suspension” in the course, with dismissal also possibilities.
