Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 3500 characters, including spaces)

Miguel Garzón obtained his MD and Neuroscience PhD degrees in UAM and was postdoctoral fellow in Cornell Medical College. He has studied the neurobiological substrates for 1) hypocretin regulation of sleep-wake states, mainly focused on brainstem-mediated arousing actions, neural connections and chemical architecture, 2) opiate actions in the central nervous system, especially those regarding cortical electroencephalographic synchronization and sleep states, as well as 3) ultrastructural bases for reinforcement in the mesocorticolimbic system within the mammalian brain. He is the author of 42 research papers, 9 book chapters and 8 review articles. He has also been the principal investigator of 8 research projects funded by competitive national calls. Thirty research papers are published in recognized neuroscience international journals and twelve in national journals on neuroscience research field. Miguel Garzón has been teaching Anatomy and Neurobiology for 27 years to medical students and has extensive experience in the formation of pre- and post-graduate students as a director of PhD and Master theses in the Neuroscience field. He has been working for the last 15 years investigating the hypocretinergic system and the neural bases of narcolepsy.
